Siamese Judging

I wish to express appreciation of and agreement with the letter by Helen Hall Roose (CATS, Feb. '49), relative to Siamese judging. There has been a great deal of inconsistency in the judging of Siamese. There has also been too much emphasis placed on lightness of coat at the expense of type. If enough Siamese exhibitors would criticize the judging methods perhaps we could make some progress. So many judges raise only Persians or Domestic cats that it is not surprising that they fail to recognize correct type in Siamese.

The complete Siamese head accounts for 35 of the A. C. A. point wins, 10 for head shape and 20 for eyes. Right here is the greatest concentration of typiness. Webster's dictionary says that a wedge is a solid of five faces with a rectangular base, thick at one end and thin at the other. That is also a description of the perfect Siamese head but we have all seen winners with short, round heads and close set eyes.

I like the judging chart that Mrs. Roose has drawn up for consideration and I especially like the fact that she has broken the eye color and eye shape into two separate entities. It makes the judging simpler. Put the whole judging procedure on a blackboard! Let the people see! The present methods cause a great deal of grumbling and dissatisfaction among the losers whereas if they could see point for point where and how the cat went down, they would be more inclined to return to the show next year with better cats.

Even the show standards are not the same which makes it hard for the novice breeder to know just what to strive for. One show standard for Siamese allots 15 points for tail. Surely the tail, if not grossly deformed, is not important as head or body shape.

Ypsilanti, Mich. Mrs. Ivan LaCore

Cat Stamp

As a means of creating added interest in National Cat Week, I suggest that the Cat Fancy through the various clubs and associations, contact their representatives in Congress and request that the Post Office Department issue a commemorative three cent stamp. This would not be unusual since stamps have already been issued for goats and poultry. I believe that if every one gets behind this we can get the stamp issued and placed on sale next November.

Peninsula, Ohio

(Editor's Note—It has just been announced that the Post Office is issuing a special U. S. postage stamp to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the invention of the safety pin.)

Liver Abscesses

It is always sad to lose a pet. We have just lost Dephi Christopher. Yesterday he looked healthy and gay as a cat could be. This morning in half an hour he was gone. Our veterinarian performed an autopsy and later told us death resulted from several small abscesses on the liver. He was frank to state that he didn't know the cause. We would appreciate so much if CATS can give us information as to cause, detection, prevention and cure of this condition.

Mrs. A. J. Embree
Boonsboro, Md.

Gestation Chart

The Gestation Chart as published in the March '49 CATS is the first I have ever been able to get hold of, and is a valuable aid for breeders. I cut it out of the Magazine and mounted it on heavy cardboard. On the opposite side I pasted a sheet of ruled paper and entered the date of each queen's breeding—date, stud and due date. If I am able to obtain a new chart each year, the old one can be filed away with pedigrees, thus saving a lot of searching through breeding books, when in a hurry. I will place a history of the births, number of kittens etc., on the same sheet as kittens arrive.

Miss Mell Russell
North Hollywood, Calif.

Guessing Game

I have a long haired, bushy tailed cat that is every inch the aristocrat, and yet her mother was a shorthaired stray and her father a short-haired neighborhood cat. Veterinarians seem to be able to figure a certain expectancy of color in a litter of kittens but who can guess how many generations back there probably was a blueblood?

PARADE

With this issue of CATS, the Third Annual Sectional and All American Cat rankings covering the exhibition season from August 1948 to and including March 1949 throughout the United States and Canada begins. The 1949 Midwestern rankings lead off in the Parade of North America's outstanding Cats of 1949.

Remember that each Cat so named to the list has won its title through the best means available—competition; and under the scrutiny of more than one judge. Aside from that the rankings are in no way besmirched by association politics. What better proof can be presented than that the Cats so named and awarded are not the best of their breed, color and sex?

Unfortunately, there may be better cats in the areas than those so named, but the owners, for picaunish political reasons, failed to exhibit their entries at certain shows, thus causing their Cats to lose valuable points to make the grade and earn the distinction and honor that rightfully belongs to those unlisted Cats.

Do you know that one cat club has placed a ban on its members from showing their cats at exhibitions sanctioned by another registry association under penalty of being expelled from the club?

Is this the American way?
Is this the American Cat Fancy?

PIONEER

"I am anxious to form a cat club. Can you please help me?" We have been receiving such requests quite regularly in recent weeks, proving beyond a doubt that interest in cats is very definitely on the increase. Receipt of such letters are on our priority list, and we hasten to contact the senders.

As a result, we are considering the issuance of a small mimeographed Guide setting forth pertinent points that may prove helpful for the launching of a cat club. Ideas used in organizing the Greater Pittsburgh Cat Club would be included plus other helpful hints that may be employed to fit the locality.

All those interested, where a cat club is not already in existence, may procure a copy just as soon as the Guide "rolls off the press."

POLICY

CATS has received reports to the effect that it favors one registry association above another. This is not correct. Perhaps those who have made the assertions have been guided by the published stud listings in each issue of CATS. For the sake of the record, the stud listings are paid advertising by the registry association, and do not in any way tend to influence the policies of this publication. As long as these stud listings are carried in CATS each month they will be paid for at the regular rates contracted for by the registry associations. If other associations request similar space, it will be granted to them.

Personally, CATS is of the strongest opinion that the Cat Fancy should be composed of ONE REGISTRY ASSOCIATION, national in scope with officers represented from every section of North America and with terms of office not exceeding three years. Until such action is taken and a unified front is adopted, the American Cat Fancy will continue in its confused state.

The recently organized Fort Wayne (Ind.) Cat Club which was formed by the interest created by National Cat Week last November, staged an informal kitten show Feb. 5 which resulted in $183.13 for the March of Dimes campaign. Nearly 1,000 attended and witnessed the judging of 154 entries, mostly household pets by Mrs. Horace Reed of Argos, Ind.

The purpose in writing this article is to point out some of the errors that are unwittingly made in dealing with others and how misunderstandings may be avoided. One often hears the complaint that a customer has written to cat breeders and has received no replies.

I wonder if in many such cases the inquiry has not been made on a postcard. It has been a common experience among people long in business that inquiries made on a postcard are hardly worth a reply. In the first place, one gets the impression that if a customer is no more interested than to spend only a penny in making the inquiry, he is not going to spend much on a purchase. Many business firms have completely discontinued their response to such inquiries. Another discourtesy to a firm is the failure to enclose a self-addressed, postpaid envelope. If one really wants to receive a reply from another party it is only fair to send the cost of postage. From the number of advertisers in Cats Magazine, I know there are many breeders who would welcome inquiries regarding their cats but would appreciate the courtesy of return postage.

Many requests for help with cat problems are sent to me, and I dare say that in half of these cases there is no self-addressed envelope enclosed. I have never turned down a request for information nor have I ever received a letter later on telling of the results of suggested treatment. I notice in some advertising the request that no orders should be made for C. O. D. delivery. With the increased cost of parcels sent in this way it is little wonder that business firms do not desire to send small cost parcels collect. The Post Office Department charges a fee for collecting. The amount of the postage and the fee for the money order is also added, thus making the purchase price so high that the customer is bound to complain. What is the answer to this problem? I believe that one should consider carefully before ordering any product just how he is going to pay for it, and whether or not the difference in extra cost of a parcel sent by C. O. D. mail is worth the difference to the purchaser. A case in point is an order we received recently from a person in another state for one of our books. She asked that it be sent to her C. O. D. We sent it immediately and, after several weeks, we received the book again at the post office with the word "refused." The transaction cost us 35 cents. Fortunately, this is the first time in years that we have had this happen. It is not surprising, then, that some firms send no such orders.

At a meeting of the Glass City Cat Club of Toledo, Ohio, 32 of the 44 members present, represented the states of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Walter Yeager is president; George Millere, vice-president; Harold Hutson, recording secretary; Mrs. George Millere, treasurer; and Mrs. Walter Yeager, 3947 Drexel Drive, Toledo, Ohio, corresponding secretary.

Plans for a 1949-50 exhibition were discussed.

The Siamese Cat Fanciers is the name of the new club that has been organized from among Siamese owners in Detroit and a number of Southern Michigan towns. President is Dr. Francis MacCracken. Mrs. R. H. Johnson is first vice-president; Mrs. Robert Brennan, second vice-president; Mrs. W. T. Newcomb, third vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Chapman, treasurer; Mrs. James Morris, recording secretary; and Mrs. Ivan LaCore, Box 4, Ypsilanti, Mich., corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Marie Wilson, 8072 Meyers Road, Detroit, has been elected secretary of The Detroit Persian Society.

HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CAT FANCY

PART 3—SIAMESE SECTION

BY CHARLES A. KENNY

(Copyright 1949, by Charles A. Kenny. Must not be reprinted or quoted without written permission.)

Siamese Cat Society Standards on Page 10

Historical data, particularly dates, relating to the American Cat Fancy, is sadly lacking simply because no thought was ever given to the future by those who comprised the bulwark of the hobby in the early days. The pioneers were more concerned with the cats they possessed at the time than with the history they were making for the interest and information of future generations of breeder-exhibitors.

The only sources available today from which some sort of a running commentary of historical nature are the few preserved volumes of early cat publications. These include "The Cat Journal," the first publication in America devoted to the activities of the Cat Fancy; "The Cat Review," which had its inception in 1904; and finally "The Cat Courier," which was established in 1912 and continued uninterrupted for 28 years. The stud books of the Beresford Cat Club, the American Cat Association, the Cat Fanciers Association and the Cat Fanciers Federation provide some additional information in regard to cats of the different eras, but little else.

Editors of the early cat magazines stressed personal squibs designed to please probable advertisers, and for the most part overlooked interesting news stories. Many valuable stories were lost because of the political alignment of the editors of these journals, and oftentimes newsworthy stories were eliminated in favor of a glowing article about some individual who was a likely prospect for a paid ad. But more about the early cat publications in a future installment.

Thus, it was that the detailed information concerning the founding of the Siamese Cat Society of America is missing from the early cat magazine sources, and from the files of the Secretary of the organization today.

It is clearly established that the Siamese Cat Society of America was founded in April 1909. This is by reason of two copies of "The Cat Review." The February 1909 issue of this publication contains an item to the effect that such a specialty group was to be organized immediately. The May 1909 number of the same publication reveals the facts about the founding of the group that occurred in April.

The February issue of the periodical had requested that all interested in Siamese cats who desired to join a club devoted to the raising, breeding and study of Siamese should contact Mrs. Gertrude E. Taylor of Syracuse, N. Y. The May number reported that the organization was founded in April with Mrs. H. G. Dykhouse of Grand Rapids, Michigan, president; and Mrs. Gertrude E. Taylor, secretary and treasurer. No mention was made of a formal meeting of the group, so we can best assume that the two officers "elect" planned the organization through correspondence between them, or at meetings with each other at exhibitions during the 1908-1909 show season.

Nevertheless, the Society was organized and was patterned somewhat after the Siamese Cat Club of England, which had been in existence since 1902. It is generally known that both Mrs. Dykhouse and Mrs. Taylor had considerable correspondence with English Siamese breeders and had imported many specimen cats from the members of the Club.

The Siamese Cat Society was launched auspiciously, according to that news story in the May 1909 copy of "The Cat Review." Mrs. Clinton Locke of Chicago who was reputed to have imported the first Siamese direct from Lady Beresford of England was the honorary president, and promptly responded by offering the new Society a Challenge Cup. The Charge d'Affaires of the Siamese Legation in Washington, D. C. became a patron of the group. Since a Standard was necessary, it was announced that contact had been made with the Royal Palace at Bangkok, Siam, and detailed information would be forthcoming to assure absolute correctness before its adoption and publication.

Unfortunately, the number of candidates for membership in the Siamese Cat Society of America was so small that little headway was made. As pointed out in previous installments, the raising of Siamese cats in America had proven anything but an immediate success. The cost of specimens was exorbitant and the death rate extremely high. Consequently, the propagation of the breed was exceedingly small despite the enthusiasm of breeder-exhibitors, curtailed because of expense and risks.

Whether or not the Siamese Cat Society ever received the desired information for a Standard from Bangkok is not known, nor is such a letter mentioned in later issues of "The Cat Review" or any other cat periodical.

It is believed that the Siamese enthusiasts used the Siamese Cat Club of England Standard until 1914.

The Siamese Cat Society of America caused very little stir in the Cat Fancy, and, as a result, the organization lay dormant as a cherished hope for several years. Finally, on September 11, 1913, a formal meeting was called to order at Syracuse, N. Y. by Mrs. Dykhouse. The Secretary-Treasurer was asked to resume her duties, which, according to the meeting report, she had been forced to cancel. The group voted to begin operations once again with a clean slate, and an all-out movement was started to recruit members.

PEDIGREE LONG HAIR KIT SOUNDS FIRE ALARM

Possibly Two Lives And Apartment Saved by Young Cat

The persistent screeching of a pedigree Black Persian kitten, only 10 weeks old at the time, is credited with the saving of the lives of two elderly ladies and the apartment house in which they reside, on Ash Wednesday, March 2, 1949.

The kitten is the colorbred pet of Mr. and Mrs. John Tietz of Swissvale, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh, where the heroic animal act was performed.

Mrs. Bridget Kilmartin, residing in a third-floor apartment directly above that occupied by the Tietz couple, was attracted by the anguished screeching of the recently acquired kitten. After hearing the consistent crying for some little time, Mrs. Kilmartin decided that it would be best that she investigate.

She hurried to the landing below where at the door of the Tietz apartment she could hear the animal cries and the scratching noise from behind it. She procured a key and entered the apartment to discover the living room in flames. The kitten had jumped into her arms as she flung open the door. Then it leaped back on the floor and darted past the flames to phone table. It turned to see if Mrs. Kilmartin was following.

Mrs. Kilmartin could not reach the telephone to, summon the Swissvale Fire Department, because the splashing flames barred her way to the console at the far side of the room. She hurried downstairs to the first floor and rapped loudly on the door of the apartment occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Sterner, with the kitting following.

Repeated thumping finally brought Mrs. Sterner to the door. She had been asleep in the back room and did not know of the raging inferno above her.

Mrs. Kilmartin quickly summoned the fire department, which is located only a block from the apartment.

Upon arrival the hook and ladder team extinguished the blaze. The Tietz apartment was completely burned out. Included in the loss was a record collection valued at $1,000. Chief Davis of the Swissvale Fire Department revealed that the flames had gained considerable headway, and if the alarm had been turned in any later, the entire structure would have been burned to the ground, not to mention the possible deaths of Mrs. Kilmartin and Mrs. Sterner. Mr. and Mrs. Tietz were out of the city for the day.

The "fire alarm kitten" is Lydia's

FIRE ALARM—This is Lydia's Duke of Akanta, pedigreed Black longhair kitten who is credited with saving the lives of two elderly ladies and an apartment house in Swissvale, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh. Owner is Mrs. John Tietz of Swissvale, who was out of the apartment at the time. The Duke is pictured at the scene of the fire. (Photograph by courtesy of The Pittsburgh Press.)

Duke of Akanta, born December 21, 1948, the breeder being Mrs. Lydia O. Cypher of Wilkinsburg, president of the recently organized Greater Pittsburgh Cat Club.

Three kittens were born at the Australian Museum in Sydney, Australia recently, with fewer than the normal four claws on each paw. One has three, one two and another only one.

Three Hundred Studies at N. Y. Museum Exhibit Unusual Display Was Historical Chronology

The story of the cat—venerated in Ancient Egypt, respected in the Orient, feared in the age of witchcraft and sentimentalized in the Victorian era—was told in the art of many countries in many ages, collected by The Cooper Union Museum for its recent exhibition "Nine Lives: The Tale of the Cat in Art and History."

The exhibition's nearly 300 cat studies in every medium—stone, ceramics, metals, paintings, prints, textiles and jewelry—were arranged by historical chronology. The cases of Egyptian material contained a number of representations of the cat as the Goddess Bast, goddess of love, pictured sometimes with a cat's head and sometimes fully in cat form. Ancient Egyptians also considered cats to be sacred animals or at least as highly respected pets. Customarily they were decorated with gold earrings and often were mummified.

The Oriental materials in the exhibition included a 12th century Japanese painting on silk which is the first cat pictured in the Zen Buddhist religion, Chinese porcelains, and Japanese color prints by Kiosai, Utamare and Hiroshige. Oriental use of the cat in ornaments of ivory, jade, bronze, and in the fashioning of girdle ornaments, incense burners and other household articles was illustrated in this section of the exhibition. Bestiaries, ancient textbooks of natural history, included the Persian bestiary called Manaff al-Hagawan and the Lincoln 12th century English bestiary, both valued at many thousands of dollars.

Another section of the exhibition was devoted to cat superstitions, which had their beginning in medieval Germany and the worship of Freya, whose chariot supposedly was drawn by cats. With the spread of Christianity, Freya and her cats fell into disrepute as pagans and finally became associated with witchcraft. The concept of the cat as the witch's companion spread throughout Europe, and survives to our own day in Halloween associations.

The cat did not completely recover her reputation until the Victorian era, when coy and fluffy kittens were often pictured on sentimental Christmas cards, in Currier & Ives prints, in wall papers, women's wearing apparel, and in such illustrated stories as "The Three Little Kittens."

Many famous artists have painted or drawn the cat, and included in the show were Durer's woodcut of Adam and Eve with a cat at their feet, satirical prints by Hogarth, Rowlandson and Daumier, Goya, Manet and Degas. Winslow Homer's only known sketch of a cat, and an original drawing by Beatrix Potter for the children's book, "The Tailor of Gloucester," borrowed from the Tate Gallery in London was shown for the first time in America.

A section of the exhibition was devoted to the cat in folk art, and contained American primitive paintings, Pennsylvania Dutch wood carvings, embroidery, etc. Other collections were made of ceramics (Bow, Chelsea, Staffordshire and Delft) and of jewelry ranging from a Georgian piece with rose diamonds, rubies and Oriental pearls to modern jewelry from Fifth Avenue jewelers.

Among modern artists with work included were Zorach, John Flanagan, Agnes Tait, Wanda Gag, Carl Walter, Peggy Bacon, and Christina Malman.

Contemporary paintings included a canvas by Godfried Mind of Switzerland, called the "Raphael of Cats," and a semi-abstraction by Peter Busa symbolizing the cat in ancient Indian civilization. Other notable modern pieces included a Steuben plate by Noguchi, a bronze by Jane Pouplet, and a textile design by James Mason, the English actor.

The exhibition was prepared and displayed by Miss Alleine Dodge and James Rambo of the Cooper Union Museum staff, under the direction of Calvin S. Hathaway, Curator of the Museum.

SIAMESE CAT SOCIETY STANDARDS OF PAST AND PRESENT

SIAMESE CAT CLUB OF ENGLAND STANDARD

(Used in America Until 1914)

BODY COLOR to be as light and even as possible, cream being the most desirable, but fawn also admissible, without streaks, bars, blotches or other body markings.

POINTS (namely, mask, ears, legs, feet and tail) to be clearly defined, and of the shade known as seal brown).

MASK complete; namely, connected by tracings with the ears, neither separated by a pale ring as in kittens, not blurred and indistinct, the desideratum being to preserve the "martens face," an impression greatly aided by a good mask.

EYES bright, and decided blue.

COAT glossy and close lying.

SHAPE, body rather long, legs proportionately slight.

HEAD rather long and pointed.

The points of Chocolate Siamese to be the same as above, except the color of the body, which is seal brown.

Body Color	20
Shape	10
Coat	10
Head	10
Eyes	20
Mask	15
Density of Points	15

(Editor's Note—This is not the Siamese Standard in use under Rules of the Governing Council of the Cat Fancy in England today. This Standard is reproduced to show the changes in the Standard originally used in America as compared with the first American Standard for Siamese adopted in 1914, and that of the Standard rewritten in 1934 with later revisions.)

STANDARD OF POINTS OF THE SIAMESE CAT SOCIETY

Adopted February 1, 1914

Points

10 HEAD—Rather long and pointed. Deep chocolate brown, colored mask, shading into pale fawn color toward top of head between the ears.

10 EARS—Neat, narrow, small at apex, broad at base, well-defined, deep chocolate brown in color.

10 EYES—Not so round as domestic cat, slanting somewhat towards the nose. Blue in color, deepest shade preferred.

20 BODY—Medium in size, graceful, lithe of movement, clear pale fawn in color.

10 LEGS—Thin, not too long, hind legs of slightly higher degree than the front, giving a rather slanting effect, and of deep chocolate brown in color.

10 FEET—Not so stout appearing as domestic cat, deep chocolate brown in color.

10 TAIL—Not too long, thin, deep chocolate brown in color.

10 COAT—Soft, sleek, short, glossy, close-lying.

10 CONDITION—Not too fat, inclined more to muscle.

OBJECTIONS—Pale eye color, odd eyes, grey or yellowish tinge in eyes. Blotchy or mixed coat, tabby or ticked markings or shadings. Extra or white toes. White spots on belly or throat. Light hairs appearing in the chocolate brown points. Any deformity or scars. Any means used to deceive the judge or doctor the coat.

STANDARD OF POINTS OF THE SIAMESE CAT SOCIETY

Adopted in 1934 with Later Revision Scale

15 BODY COLOR—Even pale fawn or cream, slightly darker across the shoulders, shading gradually into a lighter color on the stomach and chest. The coat to be a warm fawn with no grey. In judging body color in older cats, allowance should be made for a darker coat, as Siamese darken with age, but the body should not be so dark as to eliminate contrast with the points. Kittens lighter in color.

15 POINTS—Mask, ears, legs, feet and tail, dense and clearly defined, all of the same shade of deep seal brown. Mask should be connected by tracings with the ears, except in kittens.

20 SHAPE (Body and Tail)—The body should be medium in size, dainty, long and svelt. Neck long and slender, legs proportionately, slim, hind legs slightly higher than front, feet small and oval in shape. Tail, long and tapering to a fine point. A slight kink in the end is allowed. Winners to be withheld from bobbed, screwed, badly kinked or pompon tails.

15 HEAD AND EARS—The head should be long and taper in straighter lines from the ears to a narrow muzzle, with no break at the whiskers. Skull to be flat and the nose to be a continuation of the forehead with no break. In profile, a straight line is seen from the center of forehead to tip of nose. Allowance to be made for jowls in the stud cat. Ears erect, rather large, pricked and wide at base.

20 EYES (Color and Shape)—Eyes clear and of a vivid deep blue color. Eye aperture almond in shape and slanting toward the nose in true Oriental fashion. Preferably not crossed.

10 COAT—Short, fine in texture and lying close to the body.

5 CONDITION—Perfect physical condition. Not fat, inclined to muscle.

BLUE POINT—The above standard to apply to the Blue Point Siamese except the coat is to be a silvery blue, slightly darker across the shoulders, changing gradually to an oyster white on the stomach and chest. Points to be of a much darker blue, but of the same tone as the coat. There must be no warm tone of fawn in the coat. Allowance made for older cats. Kittens lighter in color. UNDESIRABLE—Round headed, fat, thick-set specimens, apparent hood, rough or shaggy coats, odd eye color, grey or yellowish tinge in eyes. Tabby or ticked markings, light hairs appearing in points. White feet or toes. Receding chin.

1949 All-Midwestern Cat Rankings

Forty-three show cats representing the Middle West and nominees for the title of 1949 All America in their respective breed, color, and sex have been named to the Third Annual All-Midwestern rankings. The lineup is ten less than which won honors in 1948. The rankings take in every show staged on the North American continent with the exception of the exhibition held in Toronto, Canada in March. No less than 12 of the nominees listed fell a fraction below the 25 points required for inclusion in the rankings, however, it was believed that wherever possible the cat was given the benefit of the doubt and the name listed in order to indicate the top ranking cat in its classification in the section.

Best Cat in the Midwest based on total points scored, is the Seal Point Siamese female, Ch. Vee Roi's Dream Girl, owned by Mrs. R. H. Hecht of Normandy, Mo. Best Opposite Sex is Ch. Jubilee of Blulace of West Allis, the Blue male, owned by Mrs. Lester O'Neil of West Allis, Wis. These cats are the Midwest's hopes for the 1949 Cat of the Year and the Best Opposite.

Six states are represented headed by Missouri with 11, and followed by Michigan, 10; Illinois, 9; Ohio, 7; Wisconsin, 5; and Iowa, 1. The 1949 selections mark the first time that Iowa has entered an All American cat candidate.

CAT TAILS ••

by Billie Bancroft
Associate Editor

Many of you must remember that attractive little red-head who was doing the Specialty Shows for C. F. F. throughout the East. I am writing of none other than Jasperine Hendrick. She tells me that Mie-ling is the personification of faithfulness. Dainty little Mie-ling fell desperately in love with a gorgeous Persian, big, white and handsome. It was just one of those things, call it kismet if you like but good looking Frosty swept Mie-ling completely off her feet. There developed a triangle, you see Mie-ling was already wed to a war-lord named Ramy who was a hard working husband so far as war-lords can be called workers—anyway he showed great ancestral pride in his children, especially his sons. Sweet little Mie-ling dreamed of a feline Valhalla with her Frosty—and what is power, or creed or race—when two strong hearts stand face to face—tho' they come from the ends of the earth—? Mie-ling, always the originator, took things into her two little paws and there was action—one moon-bespattered night—they eloped, taking refuge in a neighbor's home—there they stayed in complete bliss until fate, (Jasperine), overtook them and forced them to return home. Ramy the war-lord, condescendingly accepted her return and when the children were born—he accepted them—but when it came time to make out the pedigree papers—he ramped and swore and yawled—no kittens of his get—ever looked like this litter—and he suggested to Jasperine that she drown 'em. At this stage of the cat-drama Mie-ling divorced Rama and refused to live with him. About this time big Frosty died—probably of a broken heart—anyway he died and little Mie-ling is true to his memory. She will accept no substitute for romantic interludes—she thinks Frosty has gone away some place. She does not realize that he has already crossed over to the feline Valhalla she was dreaming about. Always she is waiting for Jasperine to leave the door of her apartment unlocked—so that she may go in search of her handsome love. But the "Judgie" is very observing about such trifles—also the "Judgie" is mad and exasperated and informs me in no uncertain language that this incident while true is not in the least bit funny and that she is just good and mad at the whole thing—she, you see, was planning on a championship litter from Mie-ling and Rama.

Dora Clark from down in Virginia writes me that she has a sweet little bit of a powder-puff in the Persian class that climbs to the typewriter, holds one key down with one foot—and taps away with the other—I betcha some day that baby will be an office boy for Cats Magazine!!!

In Manitoba, in the town of Brandon on the Assiniboine river, lives a little old lady seventy-seven years young. She tells me the postman stops by and rests on her porch in the late summer evenings, he puts his mail pouch down beside him and as he is on his way back to the post office, his bag is very nearly empty, Madame Contreau says that her big male Persian "Blue Boy" immediately hops into the mail pouch. One day the postman said he was going to mail "Blue Boy" to Billie Bancroft—and that is how Madame Contreau learned about Cat Tails.

Evelyn Barclay from out in Albion, Nebraska, tells me they have a cream Persian that was raised on a bottle—and her mother was most particular as to the formulas and the hours of feeding. This cream has a very wonderful pedigree and is of the royals royalty—every effort was made to raise the little devil. Now—he is seven months of age, eats like a horse and has no compunctions in waking the family any hour of the night that he happens to get hungry—Evelyn states that it is a weird sensation to be aroused from a deep sleep by my "Churchill's Commando"—war-whooping or a dish of milk of maybe a bit of fish.

That nice little Cicely Mellor who has an attractive table at the various Shows tells me about an incident that happened in London, her friend narrated to her. The story regards a "Ginger cat" (I think they call a red tabby, ginger on the continent. I had a letter from Paris speaking of a "Ginger cat"—also a letter from British West Indies, using the same term). It seems this cat was adopted by the cook in this particular household. This cat had a very undesirable habit from which it could not be broken—the man of the house ordered his Secretary to call the Dumb Friends League, have them collect the cat and dispose of it. When the van arrived the cook had hysterics and begged for it's life. The Secretary not knowing this had already given the men from the League 5/—to put it to sleep—just as it had been given a dose the boss rushed out to stop it and the men said they could give the cat an antidote to bring it back to life again—which they accordingly did. The cat is as merry as a cricket today. (Talk about being rescued from the jaws of death!) The joke is that the boss gave the men another 5/—for bringing it back to life again. The secretary feels that it was a wasted 10/—.

GR. CH. DIXI-LAND FELICE WINS C. F. A. CHALLENGE AWARD

MISS OLGA MILLER AND MRS. R. H. HECHT

ALSO CAPTURE HONORS; NOVICE VOIDED

At the annual meeting of the Cat Fanciers' Association, Inc., held at the Hotel McAlpine, New York City, February 24, Mrs. Merald E. Hoag of Arlington, Va., was named the winner of the annual Best Cat Challenge Award for the 1948-49 season. Although the name of the Hoag cat was not given in the special announcement sent CATS magazine, nevertheless it is expected that the cat singled out is Grand Champion Dixi-Land's Felice of Normont, the Blue longhair female, which last year won the All-American title in her breed, color and sex, and is an outstanding candidate to cop the title again this year, as well as that of 1949 Cat of the Year.

It was also announced that the Best Kitten Challenge Award was won by Mrs. Olga Miller of Union, N. J., while Best Short Hair Challenge Award was annexed by Mrs. R. H. Hecht of Normandy, Mo. Names of the winning cats will be formally announced next month. The award for Best Novice was declared void.

In the election of officers, Miss Elsie Hydon of Bogota, N. J. was again named President with Miss Lillian M. Goodwin of Teaneck, N. J. Vice-President to fill the vacancy of Mrs. Orville H. Stewart of Washington, D. C. Miss Goodwin also will continue as Treasurer, with Mrs. Karl B. Norton of White Plains, N. Y. as Secretary, a position she assumed following the resignation of that post by Miss Goodwin last year.

Mr. Sven Nelson of Braintree, Mass., was elected to the Board in the vacancy created by the late Mrs. Mary Warfel-Smith. Other members of the Board to be re-elected are Miss Hydon, Mrs. Anthony Avata, Manhasset, N. Y., Mrs. Julia Hunter, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Mrs. Charlotte Hall, Swedesboro, N. J., Mrs. Norton, and Mr. J. W. Brinning, Upper Montclair, N. J.

"The cat is an individualist, little given to personal affection . . . Cats are often friendly, though scarcely affectionate like dogs . . . Though rather extensively eaten under various pseudonyms, they are not especially popular as food."

I. M. M.

An ancient and honorable ornithologist named Sloane, describing an extinct bird, says:

"Along the upper Mandible were several bristly Hairs in a Line like those of a Cat's Mustachoes."

HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CAT

after this pep-meeting is not revealed. A news item in one of the journals stated that Mrs. Dykhouse resigned the presidency (sometime during 1913 after the Syracuse meeting). The item included the facts that the treasury had a grand total of $15.56 along with eight cups and trophies and 40 ribbons.

On February 1, 1914, the second (known) formal meeting of the Society was held in New York City with Mrs. Clifford B. Harman elected president. It was at this meeting that the members voted to discard the English Standard and adopt its own. Mrs. Dykhouse was awarded the Locke Trophy by reason of her Siamese female, Romeo Blue Bell, going Best Cat in the All-Breed show held in Minneapolis in 1912.

It is the opinion of the writer that with the 1914 meeting, the Siamese Cat Society of America wandered out of the dollrums and embarked on an active campaign which gradually gave it the importance in the Cat Fancy in America which it enjoys today.

It is noted that in the standards of the original Cat Club of England as well as that adopted by the Society in 1914, that the Blue Point Siamese is given no consideration, and it was not until a new Standard was adopted in 1934 that the Blue point was given any recognition.

ALL-AMERICAN 1948

Miss Porter is an outstanding breeder of Manx cats who have won many top honors at shows throughout the United States. The cat shown at the left has been Best Manx or Best of Opposite Sex each time shown.

Miss Porter writes: "I have been using Labco products for three years and can recommend them with complete confidence. Labco Pet Shampoo has kept my cattery free of fleas and other insect pests. Last Summer, I found only one flea in my entire cattery.

"I wash the quarters with the rinse water after bathing my cats with Labco, and thus prevent re-infestation. Labco Dry-Clean Lotion is a valuable aid for quick-cleaning, especially at shows. Labco Hair-Ball Remedy and Labco Germicide are two more necessities for every cat owner."
